

Aims and purpose of the documentary

The aim of the documentary was to make a video showing gameplay and trailers of two Pokémon games and do a voice over it explaining what is happening in the trailer and give my opinion of the games and how they could have improved the games. The purpose of the game was to show the evolution of the games and how they changed and what the differences are of the two games. The purpose was also to show the differences to kids because it will show them what kids who played the new games didn't see when they see the new games.
