

UAL Level 3 Diploma in Creative Media Production & Technology

D. W. GRIFFITH

What he is known for:

Invisible Editing:

How has it influenced the audience and the film industry as a whole:

He is known for being an America Film Director and also have very clear, invisible cuts in editing. As well as this he was known for his American Motion Picture films. Which influenced the film industry and is now popular in most films. That's why in films the cuts run smoothly and are invisible.

D. W. Griffith worked as an actor and has contributed to even playwright, he has created, learnt and developed high innovated filmmaking techniques. As well as this he also directed a blockbuster which was 1915 feature length work of Birth of Nation work which content was highly racist.

He has raised as a Methodist so in his school home he was taught by his older sister Maddie. His one most popular film Intolerance was ignored by the Americans but had influenced the Soviets where the filmmakers analyzed every minute of Griffith editing styles and techniques.

He was well known and contacted by the Britain's for his stature and reputation for dramatic film making.