

Final Look and reflections:

Reflecting on my final look, I'm really proud and happy with how my finished look came out. Practising hair and makeup a couple times before the final day, definitely helped me time wise ~~to~~ on the day. I'm really happy my vision came to life too, as I was really hoping my inspiration from Valentino translated in the final look as ~~be~~ many of his techniques was used within my makeup look. As for a problem solving ~~goes~~ goes, I would definitely measure my model correctly before hand or ask her to try it on at each stage to ensure it was the perfect fit and the most comfortable for her doing this. I would've avoided any last minute adjustments to make it fit. Another thing I have learnt for the fashion show, is to include jewellery as my model looked too bare and just needed some accessories to top it off. From this error, I have purchased gold earrings, gold stacked necklaces and gold hair hoops to cover the elastic bands that was on show in the pictures. I've thoroughly enjoyed working with both my model and the photographer to bring my FMP to life.
