Comments:

Well done Robert, you have completed this initial assessment to a good standard. You have showcased your practical skills and ability on the piano. You have really made some strides by being able to perform an improvisation on the piano with different techniques and chord progressions. However, there is lots of work to improve on. For example, you should take more care of pedaling and should start to learn some theory to help your understanding. It would be great to see you collaborate with a singer for a performance like this in future. You could also challenge yourself by singing? There are many areas for improvement, as previously mentioned, and you have described some of these in your evaluation. You have made clear points, using correct terminology, on your areas for improvement. You now need to think about detailing how you could improve in these areas. This is a good benchmark to start the year Robert and I look forward to seeing and hearing your work this year!

Please now set yourself three SMART targets to improve after receiving this feedback.
