

SOUTH SQUARE

South Square Centre Student Exhibition Project

The South Square Centre, a renowned gallery in Bradford, provides an invaluable platform for students to showcase their artistic talents through commissioned exhibitions. In this initiative, students are tasked with responding to live employer briefs set by the gallery, allowing them to engage directly with the gallery's vision and mission. Throughout the process, students participate in critique sessions that encourage constructive feedback and reflection, fostering their artistic development and critical thinking skills.

As part of the project, students are responsible for various aspects of the exhibition, including the hanging of their work, calculating prices, and preparing for the opening event. This hands-on experience not only enhances their practical skills in exhibition curation but also provides insights into the professional art world. By attending the opening of their exhibition, students gain firsthand experience of presenting their work to the public, networking with art enthusiasts, and receiving feedback from visitors.

Overall, the South Square Centre Student Exhibition Project offers students a comprehensive and immersive experience in the world of contemporary art, bridging the gap between education and professional practice.

Strengths

Real-World Experience

Students gain practical experience in responding to live briefs and creating work that aligns with professional standards, preparing them for future careers in the arts.

Critical Feedback

Participation in critique sessions allows students to receive valuable feedback from peers and mentors, enhancing their artistic skills and helping them refine their work.

Exhibition Management

By handling the logistics of hanging their work and calculating prices, students develop essential skills in exhibition curation and art sales, vital for a career in the arts.

Networking Opportunities

Attending the exhibition opening provides students with the chance to connect with gallery visitors, art professionals, and potential collaborators, expanding their professional network.

Creative Expression

The project encourages students to express their unique artistic voices while adhering to the themes and requirements set by the gallery, promoting personal and artistic growth.

Community Engagement

Showcasing their work in a public gallery fosters a sense of community and connection between students and local art audiences, enhancing the cultural landscape of Bradford.
