

Recycling project at Leeds Festival Volunteering

Give up your free time for a worthwhile cause and have a free access to Leeds Festival

Every year Leeds Festival attracts thousands of music lovers. Keeping the site environmentally friendly is a huge challenge, that the Green Messengers help with. This volunteering experience gives volunteers the chance to have access to the festival for free.

2023

What will you do?

As a Green Messenger you will work to promote recycling, collect cans & plastic bottles in the campsites, during the festival. And after the festival you will salvage good quality, re-usable camping equipment that has been left behind, and which will be passed on to local charity and community organisations that really need it for their activities.

The activities are usually held during the day. So you will be free in the evening for the big bands and according to the rota will also be able to spend your free time in the festival enjoying the bands and entertainment on offer!

Who is it for?

For this project you need to be:

- living in the UK
- 18-25yo
- full of energy
- don't mind getting your hands dirty
- have an interest for recycling
